#054: lenke Kastelein: In Between (walking borders and lines) (2016).

Find anything that can be considered a border or a line:
the curbstone of the sidewalk, two different kinds of pavement, gutter and street, grass and sand, river and bank,
waves and beach, sidewalk and building, contouring parked cars, between light and shade, path and lawn, etc.

This performance can be done alone or in a group.
Start walking at an interesting point and keep walking for about 30 minutes (or more, if you like).

If in a group: find a starting point in common, start walking finding your own track and make sure you agree upon a time to get back at the beginning.

± 30 minutes
