#124: Martine Viale: Body in confined spaces (2020)

Following a series of action scores that I recently developed in the public space (City Actions 2019-2020), I wanted to use this imposed isolation time to think about scores that could be performed in intimate and personal spaces. A way to adapt to the context, a way of staying connected, a way of turning the gaze more deeply inward. The scores may be performed alone or in interaction with the people in your home who you are sharing this lockdown with.

M.V. March 30, 2020

Body in confined spaces Nr.3 (2020)

- You can either sit on the floor or lean out of your chair to see the floor up close.
- Gradually collect some dust with your fingers and pile it up in one place.
- Choose another place in the space and repeat this action.
- At the end, leave the room, letting both piles of dust behind.
